I am a software/video game developer with a passion for creating innovative and cool things. I love to learn from the best, and love to help others grow too - I think that it's important we all be the best we can be and do the best we can, especially in a development environment, which is why a chance to grow is essential to me.

Skills and Interests

I have excellent interpersonal skills and I am an effective team member whereby I can use my initiative in approaching challenges and embracing new opportunities.

I am proficient in several computing languages, with my main languages being C# and C++. Alongside these I have proficiency with the game engine Unity3D, using it for multiple kinds of projects.

I am also very outgoing as I enjoy kayaking, playing rugby and have completed a 'Tough Mudder' along with running an extended half-marathon. As well as this, I have been playing guitar for many years and this is a great love of mine.
